

INTERNATIONAL CLIMATE COUNCILS NETWORK

Request for Proposals:

The International Climate Councils Network invites interested parties to submit proposals for secretariat hosting.

Introduction:

The International Climate Councils Network (ICCN) was created in 2021 as a forum for climate councils to establish collective strength, presence, and influence through collaborating on key agendas and challenges. Climate councils have been created across the world in an effort to embed independent analysis and advice at the heart of climate decision-making. The Network aims to use international cooperation to strengthen and expand councils' capabilities, and to amplify the role that climate councils can play in effective global climate governance. To do this, the Network meets twice a year in virtual Plenary meetings and also comes together in working groups, monthly thematic discussions and bilateral exchanges. The Network held events at COP26 and COP27, and published joint letters to the UNFCCC Executive Secretary and COP President for both summits. Beyond these activities, Network members engage new councils outside of the Network.

The ICCN membership is made up of national-level advisory bodies with a mandate to provide expert, science-based advice to governments on mitigation and/or adaptation. Some degree of independence is required. The ICCN Steering Committee handles the strategic coordination of the network, and is made up of representatives from three councils that rotate on an annual basis. The strategic priorities of the network include:

- Increase ICCN visibility and build awareness on the importance of climate councils as part of international climate governance structures.
- Supporting the creation of new climate councils, and providing guidance on capacity building for newly established councils.
- Engaging ICCN membership through knowledge exchange programming, such as working groups, thematic discussions, workshops, and yearly events at COPs.

The ICCN is looking to set up a dedicated secretariat to support the Steering Committee to ensure that the Network has sufficient resource to deliver against these priorities.

Deliverables:

The ICCN is seeking an independent third party organization to host a secretariat that would work under the direction of the Steering Committee. Secretariat services would include:

- Providing coordination and support for ICCN member councils. This includes managing administrative duties including financial management, website management and communication with existing members.
- Providing support to the ICCN Steering Committee, including meeting set up, agenda setting, and recording actions.
- Coordinating ICCN knowledge exchange activities to facilitate sharing of best practices and lessons learned.
- Working alongside the Steering Committee to build network membership, including developing and implementing strategies to recruit new members.
- Work alongside existing members to support the establishment and capacity building of new climate councils.
- Managing external communications and planning events to increase ICCN visibility, amplify network activities, and build partnerships with key stakeholders.
- Event and meeting management, including virtual and in-person ICCN Plenary meetings and in-person events at annual UNFCCC COPs.

It is envisaged the secretariat would be established and running by January 2024.

Evaluation Criteria:

The ICCN Steering Committee invites interested parties to submit proposals. Candidates must ensure that the information they provide includes sufficient material to assess capabilities in the areas indicated below. Subsequent to review of the written proposals, the Steering Committee reserves the right to request that one or more candidates attend an interview in order to further explain their approach or qualifications. The Steering Committee may disqualify candidates if response contains misrepresentations or any other inaccurate, misleading, or incomplete information.
